Louisiana Civil Code Online

The Louisiana Civil Code may now be consulted online on our CCLS webpage, starting from the Table of Contents. The LCCO webpage will in the future give access to a translation into French and later into Spanish, with the possibility of consulting two linguistic versions simultaneously (English and French or English and Spanish). The site gives user-friendly access to all code articles presently in force, as they appear on the Louisiana Legislature website, without article-titles and comments. The only editorial element is the reference to the Louisiana Act, below the many articles that have been revised. For comments and proposals, contact moreteau@law.lsu.edu.

LL.M. Program at LSU Law

The Master of Laws (LL.M.) Program is now accepting applications for the 2011-2012 academic year. The LSU Law Center's distinctive curriculum, with fully-developed Civil and Common Law programs, provides a unique and intense legal education that gives our graduates qualifications not developed by other American law schools.

For over 70 years, LSU Law has provided an LL.M. education of the highest caliber, while maintaining affordability; alumni of the LL.M Program have gone on to positions at some of the top universities and law firms in the world.

Please visit the LL.M. webpage, the LL.M. 2011 blog, and the LL.M. Alumni blog. Contact us by email at: llmadmission@law.lsu.edu or by telephone at 225-578-7831 for more information about this unique opportunity.

Research Associate Moves to Germany

Agustin Parise, Research Associate at the CCLS since 2006 and LSU LL.M. (2006), moved in late September to Germany with his wife Julieta Marotta (LSU LL.M. 2007). While acting as Research Associate, Dr. Parise was also involved with the LL.M. program, and in the early fall, he taught as Adjunct Professor a course on Property Law in Latin America at LSU Law. In Germany, he visits the Max Planck Institute for Comparative and Private International Law in Hamburg, until February 2011. He will then move to Frankfurt to the Max Planck Institute for Legal History, until October 2011. At both institutes he will undertake post-doctoral research on the European sources of the Louisiana Civil Code and other Latin American civil codes, and hence, continue the research he initiated in his dissertation written at LSU and entitled: History of the Louisiana Civil Code and Its Influence on the Argentine Civil Code. Dr. Parise may be reached at agustinparise@yahoo.com.ar.

Julieta Marotta will be a Visiting Scholar at the Institute for Foundation Law and the Law of Non-Profit Organizations at Bucerius Law School, where she will research European non-profit organizations. After her LL.M. at LSU Law, she worked for the Louisiana Civil Justice Center in New Orleans.

The CCLS team wishes both of them the best during their European experience!
