Book Notes

PROBLEMI DI DIRITTO (Problems of Law), by Enrico Allorio.
Milan, A. Giuffrè, 1957. 3 vols.

These three volumes reprint articles and papers of permanent interest by the eminent professor of civil procedure in the Catholic University of the Sacred Heart in Milan and editor of Jus. The individual volumes bear the titles d'Ordinamento giuridico nel prisma dell'Accertamento giudiziale (The legal order viewed through the prism of the judicial process), Sulla dottrina della giurisdizione e del giudicato e altri studi (On the doctrine concerning jurisdiction and the thing adjudged and other studies), and La vita e la scienza e il diritto in Italia e in Europa e altri studi (Life, science, and law in Italy and in Europe, and other studies). The writings contained in the first volume include, in addition to a lengthy lecture-article from which the volume takes its title, thirty-seven other items on civil procedure, arranged in chapters according to general content, and dealing with such matters as the right and cause of action, the parties, proof, judgment, and civil process. The second volume collects thirty-three items under chapters on the doctrine concerning jurisdiction and the thing adjudged, forced execution, questions of penal procedure, evaluation of existing civil procedure and suggestions for reform, problems of arbitration, and critiques of the theories of Cornelutti concerning civil procedure. The third volume contains thirty-three items on jurisprudence, legal science, history of procedural law, family law (including four on atheistic and religious education in relation to family rights), tributary law and procedure, agrarian contracts, and other variae.

The availability of Professor Allorio's principal periodical writings in one collection will please those who already know its value and at the same time make it easier for others to acquaint themselves with it.
